Urban Forestry Grant-Writing Workshops

A series of half-day workshops,
January 22-25, 2013

Please join us to learn more about the grant program and how municipalities, non-profits, educational institutions and state organizations can apply for grants through the Urban and Community Forestry (U&CF) Grant Program.

All potential grant applicants are requested to attend one workshop session in order for your application to be considered for funding.

What is the Urban and Community Forestry Grant Program?

The Urban and Community Forestry Grant Program is funded by the USDA Forest Service and administered by the NC Forest Service (NCFS). This 50/50 match program promotes and supports projects which enhance the urban environment, educate the public and initiate urban programs in communities. Examples of eligible projects include tree ordinance creation, street tree inventory, urban forestry management plans, workshops and educational materials. More examples can be found on the NCFS's web site at: www.ncforestservice.gov/Urban/urban\_grant\_overview.htm

Why a workshop?

The Urban and Community Forestry Grant Program is requesting all potential applicants to attend one of the offered workshop sessions, even if you have attended this workshop in the past, or successfully applied for a grant. Workshop attendees will learn:

- How a well-written application that meets all requirements is essential for funding consideration;
- New contracting requirements and updates to the Request for Proposals;
- Information on the benefits of urban forest management and future educational opportunities.

Applications received from communities or organizations that did not have a representative attend will receive lower priority in the review process.
